

The Only Two Tips You Need for Maintaining a Clean Commercial Property

Most business and commercial property owners have very little interest in understanding the ins and outs of keeping their workplace clean. At the end of the day, you just want a clean workplace that maximizes the health and productivity of your employees. And the easiest way to do that is to hire professionals to handle the job for you. But, even if you do plan on outsourcing all or most of your cleaning duties to a commercial cleaning company in Atlanta, there is still one task that you'll want complete to ensure your needs are met.

Let's take a look at the only two tips you'll need to always keep your office looking its best.

1. Create and Follow a Cleaning Checklist

Creating and following checklists is one of the best ways to ensure that your entire workplace remains clean. To do this efficiently, it's a good idea to create a list that lays out tasks for each individual area of your office. For example, for a large commercial property, you'll want to create a checklist for the following areas:

- Reception
- Conference Room
- Workstations
- Desks
- Kitchen
- Bathrooms

Laying out the tasks based on frequency is also a good idea. This includes:

- Daily
- Weekly
- Monthly
- Quarterly
- Bi-Annually
- Annually

Once your checklist is created, you should have a good idea of who can handle the tasks. If you have a janitor or other cleaners on staff, many of the daily and weekly tasks can be handled by them. If you don't, a commercial cleaning company in Atlanta can handle this for you (in addition to the other tasks on your checklist).

By providing the company you hire with a ready made checklist, you'll be able to get a much more accurate estimate for services than simply asking, "how much would it be to clean our office?"

2. Hire Professionals for the Tough Stuff

While handling all of your cleaning in-house may seem like a great way to cut costs, it actually isn't. Between the equipment you'll need to purchase, the staff you'll need to pay, and the training you'll need to complete the job, the cost of doing it yourself can add up.

This is especially true when it comes to jobs like carpet cleaning, grout repair, floor re-tiling, floor stripping, floor waxing, and other tasks that require equipment and expertise to complete the right way. So, even if you do plan on handling SOME cleaning tasks in-house, an experienced commercial cleaning company in Atlanta can save you a whole lot of time, money, and stress when it comes to the tough tasks.
